Designing a Life of Distinction

To The Horizon And Beyond

Thus have I heard: There is a right way and a wrong way to do things. Get the fundamentals right and the level of everything you do will rise exponentially.

Have you been adventurous in discovering your true place in this world or are you like a ship's captain on a voyage to nowhere? Over time, how far off course do you think that might take you? Look at your situation today. Are you on course? How satisfying will your life be five or ten years from now, if you don't make the necessary corrections now?

You do realize that each day you can either pretend that your life is supersonic, or invest the necessary time, energy and attention to craft it into a masterpiece. How else will you begin to materialize your wildest dreams? Doesn't your yearning for more fun, fulfillment and meaning demand to be heard? And not just heard, but lived, in a zestful and exuberant manner?

Much as you learn a new sport, you can train your natural aptitude to surge forward on the crest of your present moments towards an exceptional life. For it is only when your choices are consistent with what is best in you, that you will stretch to the horizon and beyond.

To add sparkle to your life, please know that it does not come from seeking fresh experiences, but from feeling and relishing the freshness of each experience. Your delight has little to do with spatial location or the tantalizing satisfaction that comes from fleeting pleasures. True delight arises when you are one with the miraculous moment, in which the value of your precious birth and the beauty of creation are revealed in their full splendour.

Bear in mind, that for you to experience a better life, you must first become a better person. In the same way as you see the value in nourishing your body with wholesome food daily, learn to see the value of uniting with your spirit as an essential part of each day because this will infuse your thoughts, words and actions with the finest nourishment possible. Always be on the lookout for innovative ways in which to improve your life and that of others, as this will help you to refine your philosophy and guide your actions towards an illustrious life.

Happiness, love, clarity and self-assurance are not separate or distinct experiences, but co-emergent states. This means that when you make a habit to experience any one of such wholesome states, you will inevitably draw other states of a similar resonance to you.

Therefore, learn to view others, not in the light of their flaws, but as they could be, because from this vantage point, you help them to build a bridge from the present to a preferred future. In this way, you reveal to others the riches they have yet to discover within themselves. When you invest in people and lift them toward their true potential, not only do they love you for it, but you too, grow immensely in the process. Inspire yourself to discover your rightful place in this world and let your joy enhance and make better the lives of everyone around you, by aiming for the horizon and beyond.

Rouse the Great Spirit within you and prime yourself with a high dose of zeal to voyage into unexplored territories and bring back paradise for all to taste. What will you do today to celebrate the immaculate radiance that is in and around you at all times?
